

STUDENTS TO HOST MOTHERS THIS WEEKEND

MANY FEATURES ARE ON SCHEDULE FOR VISITING MOMS

Determined to provide non-stop entertainment for an expected 1000-plus mothers, DePauw University students will stage a bigger-than-ever May Day program here Saturday (May 3).

Major item on the agenda is the traditional May Pageant, scheduled to begin in Blackstock Stadium immediately following the 1:15 p. m. Air Force ROTC review and awards presentation.

Also offered during the day will be two "capping" ceremonies—one for new members of Mortar Board, coed scholarship-leadership honorary, and another for second-year School of Nursing students.

Focal point of the afternoon pageant will be the crowning of DePauw's 1958 May Queen, whose identity is not disclosed until the beginning of festivities in her honor.

Selected by a vote of all senior coeds, the queen will be chosen from a trio of candidates which includes Susan Lawrence, Glenview, Ill.; Edna Rix, Wooster, O.; and Nancy Lindquist, Riverside, Ill.

Members of the queen's court are Emilie Kohlstaedt and Nancy Wynne, both of Indianapolis; Carolyn Conder, Lafayette; Marie Bromer, Fort Wayne; Alice Jones, Onarga, Ill.; Ellaria Shaw, Woodstock, Ill.; Carolyn Beasley, Webster Groves, Mo.; and Carolyn Jones, Fairview Park, O.

Carrying the queen's colors will be two young sons of DePauw professors, Paul Wagoner and Bobby Minar, and two coeds, Patsy Rader, Riverside, Ill., and Ann McClurg, Batavia, Ill. Flower girls will be Kathy Hilberry and Margo Loring, both daughters of professors.

DePauw President Russell J. Humber, senior class President David Cryer, Findley, O., and more than 80 dancers and flower-chain bearers also will participate in the pageant.

Opening with the ritual Maypole dance, the salute to the queen will include special dances by members of Orchestras, DePauw modern dance honorary.

Saturday's 14-hour program will get underway at 8 a. m. with the YWCA breakfast and Mortar Board selection in Bowman Gymnasium, followed by Kappa Pi art fraternity's auction at 10:15 on the Union steps.

At 10:30 the School of Nursing will hold its recognition ceremony in Goble Memorial Church, where the main speaker will be the Rev. Elmer Harvey, administrative assistant at Indianapolis Methodist Hospital.

Following the military review and pageant, DePauw's Student Union will sponsor a special reception, and Station WGRE has booked simultaneous program in the Union ballroom.

Visiting mothers and other guests will be offered a variety of events Saturday evening, including the final performance of the Little Theater play, "Our Town," at 8:15 in Speech Hall.

Appearing at 8 and again at 9:30 in Meharry Hall, the singing Collegians will feature selections from "Carousal," and "Minstrel Melodies" will begin at the same hours in the Union.

Jobless Receive Over $1 Billion

WASHINGTON, (UP)—More than one billion dollars in unemployment compensation benefits was pumped into the economy during the first three months of this year, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said today.

He said 2,700,000 workers received the benefits every week during the opening quarter of 1958.

An estimated 700,000 exhausted their benefits during this period. Mitchell said 3,500,000 idle workers are drawing jobless benefits now. Of the remaining 1,600,000 unemployed, he said nearly 500,000 are youngsters who had not held jobs before and could not qualify under a pending Democratic bill.

Another 300,000, Mitchell said, are either casual farm workers or domestics whose work records, for eligibility under the Democratic bill, would be difficult to establish.

MAN ADMITS SETTING FIRE TO DWELLING

Sheriff Joe Rollings reported Friday morning that Paul Rader, 31, signed a written statement Thursday night at the Putnam County jail that he set fire to the Mildred Staggs' home in Clinton Falls on the morning of Tuesday, April 29th.

The signature was witnessed by William Lawrence, Greencastle Fire Chief, and Virgil Quinn, of the State Fire Marshal's office, in addition to the sheriff.

Rader was taken into custody Thursday afternoon on a larceny charge after Mildred Staggs identified numerous garden tools, a lawn mower, and other items as her property which had been taken from the Clinton Falls home. The sheriff said it took two cars to haul the stolen property to the jail garage.

According to the sheriff, Rader said he went to the Staggs' home at 4 a. m. on April 29th. He reached through an open window and struck a match to a pile of papers and said the fire was an attempt to cover up his activity.

Rader has been living recently in a tenant house on a farm north of Greencastle after residing for about two weeks in the Staggs' house.

CANDIDATES TO BE NOMINATED NEXT TUESDAY

HOOSIER VOTERS TO GO TO POLLS IN PRIMARY ELECTION

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana's biennial primary next Tuesday has more overtones than a Chinese gong, despite the fact the ballots are devoid of big races and interest among voters is low.

Democrat and Republican voters will decide on nominees for Congress, the Legislature and many local offices.

But Gov. Handley, who aspires to the U. S. Senate seat of retiring Sen. William E. Jenner, won't be on the ballot. Senatorial nominees, as well as candidates for all state offices, are chosen at party conventions in late June.

Most of the 11 Indiana Congressional incumbents, all of whom seek re-election, are unopposed in the primary, including Rep. Charles A. Halleck, dean of the Hoosier delegation and former House majority leader. Halleck seeks to extend his tenure in Congress to 25 consecutive years.

Much interest among the so-called professional politicians was created in local races for seats as delegates to the state nominating conventions and for chairmanships of local precinct party organizations.

As usual, Indiana was a "four party" state, with Republicans and Democrats each divided into two factions.

Jenner's faction is in control of the GOP organization and the Statehouse. Handley is his hand-picked candidate to succeed Jenner, and many observers doubt his rivals for the nomination have much success with Handley and Jenner in control of thousands of state jobs held by Republicans loyal to them.

The "anti-Jenner" faction is made up largely of persons loyal to a faction headed by former Gov. George N. Craig. Craig tried vainly to keep Handley from winning the governor nomination in 1956.

Should Handley be nominated and then elected next fall, he would resign as governor after serving half his four-year term and Lt. Gov. Crawford F. Parker, also a Handley-Jenner man, would take over the chief executive job.

The Craig faction has no candidate for senator thus far. Handley's only announced senatorial opponents are State Sen. D. Russell Bontrager, and Indianapolis Judge John Niblack.

Democratic factions are divided generally for or against Paul M. Butler, a Hoosier now serving as the party's national chairman. But the first is not so intense but due largely to the fact that the party is out of power.

Democrats have more than half a dozen potential candidates for the senatorial nomination, none of them very well known except regionally. The profusion of candidates was believed due to optimism over the party's chances.

Most speculation thus far in this election year is how much the Republicans in this traditionally heavy GOP state will suffer from the nation's economic situation, the Eisenhower administration's farm policies and the Indiana highway scandals. Indiana has nearly 150,000 unemployed, nearly 10 per cent of its labor force.

KEPT ON RUNNING

CONCORD, Mass. UP — Concord Prison farm outfielder Ronald Mules broke with the crack of the bat, raced far back to the cheers of guards and spectators alike and grabbed the ball on the dead run.

The guards suddenly stopped cheering. The spectators, all prison farm inmates, cheered on.

Mules had run right out of the park and into the woods.

Several guards stood dumb-founded for several seconds Thursday before coming to a full realization of what had transpired.

After quieting Mules' wildly cheering rooting section, which included the slugger who had rapped the ball, four guards set out after the escapee.

But, police said, they proved no match for the fleet centerfielder and he made a clean getaway.

Athenians Edge Tiger Cubs, 12-11

Crawfordsville defeated Greencastle's Tiger Cubs, 12 to 11, in a wild and woolly baseball tilt on the Athenians' diamond Thursday afternoon. Crawfordsville had to come from behind in the bottom of the ninth inning to win when they scored the tying and winning tallies.

Hopkins, Beaman and Bible formed the Cub battery while Manion went all the way for the Athenians with Austin behind the plate.

DePauw Tennis Team Is Winner

DePauw won its third athletic contest in two days over Wabash yesterday, when the Tiger tennis entry breezed to a 5-0 victory in Crawfordsville.

On Wednesday DePauw handed the Cavemen a 5-2 setback on the baseball diamond, and Bengal golfers knocked off their counterparts, 13 1/2-7 1/2.

Yesterday's net triumph also was the 64th straight over state small-college opponents, who have had no dual-match luck with the Tigers since 1948.

Defeated only by Memphis' University Club and Miami (O.) this season, Mike Snavely's locals have won eight matches, seven by shutouts.

COMEDIAN DONS KILT

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, UP — Alexander Cowie Wilcox, 38, donned a kilt for the first time today and vowed to wear it until next May Day.

He said "Although I'm going to look like a real fool" he'll stick to the highland garb because it's a condition under which he will inherit money under the will of his Scots grandfather.

Wilcox, a comedian who cracks Afrikaans jokes on South African music hall tours, said he doesn't know how much he stands to get, but is prepared to take that chance.

The grandfather's will said, "To all members of my family with the first names Alexander Cowie I leave my money provided they wear the kilt from May Day this year until May Day next."

Handley Against U. S. Jobless Aid

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Gov. Handley left doubts today that Indiana workers would benefit from enactment of either of two bills in Congress for extending unemployment benefits.

Handley said he had doubts that Indiana could legally accept federal loans for extending benefit periods by 50 percent, as provided in the Eisenhower administration's plan. And he said he opposed the Democratic version calling for direct grants to states to pay for 16 extra weeks of benefits.

Neither proposal would require participation by the states. But if Indiana did participate, thousands of Hoosier unemployed workers would be affected.

More than 100,000 Hoosiers currently are drawing weekly unemployment benefits.

While Handley expressed his views in a news conference late Thursday, the House was passing a modified version of the Eisenhower plan under which states could borrow federal funds to extend benefit periods for those now covered.

Mrs. Gladys DeVore

Is Hostess To Club

The Federated Country Reading Club of Roachdale R. 2, held its April meeting at the home of Mrs. Gladys DeVore on Wednesday, April 23.

The meeting was called to order at 1:30 by the president, Mrs. John Sullivan and the pledges were made to both the national and the Christian flags.

The devotions were in charge of Mrs. Fred Gowin, who read verse 44 of the 5th Chapter of Mathew and spoke on living to bless all with whom we come in contact.

The roll call responses were as usual on the assigned topics relating to federation work and were interesting and thought provoking.

The report of the last meeting was read and approved and the Federation convention held in Roachdale on April 8 was reported on and discussed. All agreed the convention was a great success and the program was interesting and well presented. Also the ladies of the Christian Church who prepared and served the luncheon were complimented for their nice luncheon.

At the business session of the club some accounts were paid and the extra fee for dues was collected since universal dues had been increased this year.

Mrs. Fred Lasley gave a review of the book, "The Small Woman" written by Alan Burgess.

This was the moving and interesting story of Gladys Aylward, a parlor maid of England who felt called to the missionary field of China. Her struggles, defeats and her final triumphs in carrying the gospel of Christ into the hill areas of China during the 1930's and the 1940's were vividly described.

It showed "One Small Woman's part in the Christianizing of an area of China, and it told of her great work for the war waifs of a land torn by strife and cruel war."

Mrs. Lasley had summarized the theme of the book so well and selected for reading the more salient portions of the book so that it was a wonderfully interesting book review.

It was announced that next club meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ernest Jeffries on Wednesday, May 28th.

The hostess, Mrs. DeVore, served delicious refreshments after the official meeting had been closed by the repeating of the club collect.

Nine members were present at the meeting.

When I played the hand in the national tournament a few weeks ago, West opened the ten of diamonds. I played low from dummy, and East took the king. East returned a diamond, and I allowed West to hold the trick. West led another diamond to dummy's ace.

I ran the four hearts, and West calmly discarded three clubs—the four, the five, and the ten, in that order. I went after spades next, finessing dummy's jack in the process. The suit produced four tricks, and I discarded a club from my hand. West discarded a diamond.

Finally, I led a club from dummy. East played the nine, and I wondered whether to play the ace or the queen.

The contract was not in danger, since I had already taken nine tricks. In tournament play, however, I dared not bring in only nine or ten tricks if everybody else produced ten or eleven tricks with the same cards.

What was the problem? I knew that West's last two cards were a diamond and a club. If he had the blank king of clubs left, I dared not finesse. If he had the blank jack of clubs, instead of the king, I would lose a trick by failing to finesse.

Know Your Opponents

In a situation of this kind, it pays to know your opponent. If West were a bad player, he would not dream of blanking the king of clubs. So in that case, I could well afford to finesse at the twelfth trick.

Actually, West was a very good player. If his clubs were headed by the jack, he would try the Methodist church spring king; and vice versa. So all I had to do was work out what impression West had tried to create—and then assume that the opposite was true.

West had thrown his clubs away early and without signaling, as though they were of no value. He wanted me to think his clubs were worthless. Therefore I assumed the opposite—that he actually had the king.

On this reasoning, I played the ace of clubs and dropped the king. The extra trick was very welcome, but both West and I needed an aspirin when the hand was over!

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one no-trump, and the next player passes. You hold: S A J 3 2 H Q J 10 3 D A 6 5 C 7 6. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs. This asks partner to show a 4-card (or longer) major suit if he has one. If he has no major suit, he bids two diamonds (or possibly two no-trump).

Two Bandits Get Fortune In Gems

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. UP—Two masked bandits made off with gems valued at more than $100,000 Thursday in a jewelry store robbery described as the biggest in Los Angeles County history.

The bandits—their faces hidden by rubber masks and nylon stockings—entered the Marvin Hime Wholesale Jewelry Co., shortly before closing time. One carried a shotgun and revolver, and the other a cardboard box and crowbar.

After ordering four clerks and eight customers to lie face down on the floor, they smashed open glass show cases and scooped a quantity of diamonds, rings, watches and rubies into the box.

Three misfires of the shotgun prevented the holdup from turning into possible death for store owner Marvin Hime. Hearing the sound of breaking glass from his office, Hime entered the show room and saw the bandits. He fled out the back door.

Two Handcuffed In College Prank

GOSHEN (UP)—Two Western Michigan College students, handcuffed together and "taken for a ride" in a fraternity prank, were separated today by sheriff's deputies.

Robert Cannel, 21, Detroit, president of the fraternity, and Robert Barone, 20, Kalamazoo, were picked up by a truck driver on a country road near Goshen early this morning. They told authorities that fraternity pledges observing a traditional ceremony of getting even for a year of subservience to upperclassmen handcuffed them and dumped them out at the end of a ride from Kalamazoo into Indiana. Deputies couldn't find a key to fit the cuffs so the students were freed by severing the chain.

80 Die In Raid On Borneo Port

SINGAPORE UP—Survivors of Monday's air raid on Balikpapan said today Indonesian rebel bombers set fire to a small loyalist warship in the Borneo port, perhaps killing 80 of its men. The report increased the estimated toll from this week's insurgent air action to nearly 100 dead. Chief Mate Frank D. Smith of the British tanker Sah Flaviano, burned and sunk during the raid said a loyalist sloop in the harbor shared the fate of his ship. Smith did not know the name of the warship, nor would he estimate the number of persons killed in the rebel attack. Another crewman of the tanker said, however, that the sloop carried about 100 men "and only 20 of them were taken off."

Spring To Stay Says Weatherman

The weatherman indicated today that spring is here to stay in Indiana—at least through the middle of next week. Temperatures climbed into the 70s Thursday and were due to hit similar levels today and Saturday. The five-day outlook called for little change thereafter through next Wednesday.

Frequent periods of showers, and some thundershowers, were due through the five days. This will handicap farmers in their spring work but prevent the development of a dry spell. Showers and scattered thunderstorms were expected tonight, Saturday and Sunday. Temperatures ranged from 67 at South Bend to 73 at Evansville at high points Thursday. They dropped to lows ranging from 42 at Fort Wayne to 55 at Indianapolis this morning and headed for highs ranging from 70 to 75.

Arkansas Faces New Flood Threat

A levee break threatened new floods in southeast Arkansas, where an estimated one-half million acres of land already were under water, but the flood danger eased today in storm-battered Texas. Elsewhere in the South drenching rains Thursday night touched off local flooding and road blocking earth slides in parts of Mississippi.

A battle to save the homes of 1,600 farm residents below Garland City, Ark., from floodwaters suffered a setback Thursday night when the rain-swollen McKinney Bayou broke through a section of the sandbagged levee. The break, later repaired, sent a surge of water swirling over a 900-acre lowland area, forcing the evacuation of five families and more than 1,500 head of cattle.

Arkansas Adj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger ordered in a National Guard unit from Prescott to help a small army of guardsmen and volunteers who have been fighting to save the levee for more than 48 hours.

Clinger said he would call in three more Guard units if the situation got worse. However, he saw little chance of preventing a break in the main levee, which would inundate up to 70,000 acres of farm land.

Pentagon Revamp Plan Faces a Stiff Battle | See Proposal Passage Despite Tough Going

By HENRY CATHCART
Central Press Washington Writer

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower faces a stiff battle from Congress with his reorganization plan for the Pentagon. The chief executive's major objective is further unification of the armed services to produce greater effectiveness and efficiency in defense.

However, there is an apparent reluctance among some congressmen to even look at or study the proposal. In fact, the chairmen of both the Senate and House armed services committees have hinted that they would oppose almost any plan suggested by the President.

Despite the opposition, however, insiders predict the plan will squeeze by because the present Pentagon organization is more than 10 years old and most of the concepts of World War II are obsolete today.

● ANOTHER REORGANIZATION NOTE—While the military reorganization bill fought raged in Congress, some of the brass hats at the Pentagon were growing worried about who will head what department when the changeover occurs.

The uneasiness prompted an anonymous note found pinned to a world map in one office. It read: "If the boss calls, get his name."

● SUMMIT SITE PROBLEM—Should a summit conference be agreed to by President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, one of the thorniest problems would be the selection of a site.

It goes without saying that Mr. Eisenhower would never agree to go behind the Iron Curtain for such a meeting. On the other hand, use of an American city for such a conference would pose tremendously difficult problems and State department authorities are chary about having the summit meeting in this country.

Geneva, Switzerland, might prove to be a suitable site once again but there is a growing belief it might be better to choose another location as a means of typifying that the meeting means a new start toward solutions of international problems.

A dark horse location for an Eisenhower-Khrushchev get-together might be a resort area in Canada. All of this, however, depends upon it—and it's a big if—a summit meeting can be arranged.

● NEW ROLE FOR BENSON—Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's repeated appeals for support from consumers are raising the political blood pressure of the anti-Benson bloc in Congress. Benson has seldom failed to mention in recent statements his belief that lower price supports would cut housewives' grocery bills. Farm leaders on Capitol Hill retort that it isn't true and—even if it were—Benson should be looking out for farmers, not consumers.

Spa Caters To Fat Teenagers

NEW YORK (UP)—Florida now boasts a "junior Maine Chance" for teen-age fatties.

The luxury spa is run by a 47-year-old businessman named Larry Paskow, who said the resort grew from necessity. His own daughter, Patricia, had been fat throughout childhood.

"Summer camp didn't help her any," said Paskow. "Patty came home 10 pounds heavier each year. Finally my wife and I decided we'd look for a camp or health farm which catered to overweight teenagers. There wasn't one, so we opened our own."

Patricia, now 16, was one of 22 "fatties" who participated in the eight-week program on an experimental basis last summer.

"Every one of the girls, but one, went home 10, 15 and even more pounds slimmer," said Paskow during an interview here. "Patty's now a trim 126 pounds, down from 154. Of course, not all of our girls did it in the eight weeks."

"The idea is to teach the youngsters proper eating habits, actually to re-train their food preferences, and hope they'll keep up the good work once they get home."

"We've kept in touch with each of our girls through the winter. We're mighty proud of Janey Hawkins, a farm girl from Casey, Ill. Janey came to the spa weighing 212 pounds. She left at 155, and now writes that she has settled down to 114."

"All but one girl stuck it out last summer," said Paskow. "We had to send her home early. She would sneak away for an afternoon and gorge. After two or three such incidents, we knew for the morale of the others, she'd have to go."

Paskow's Harbor Island spa is located at Miami Beach. In winter, it caters to adults who want to lose a few pounds, or else just get a good rest. This summer, the teenagers again will take over—100 girls, 14 to 19 years old, enrolled at $890 a head.

"They're hardly roughing it," said Paskow. "Each room is air-conditioned with private bath and shower. It's sort of a junior Maine Chance." The reference was to the Arizona health resort visited earlier this year by Mamie Eisenhower.

The daily program at Harbor Island includes spot reducing, steam room, massage and calisthenics, plus lessons in makeup, hair styling, style, speech, dancing, manner and various outdoor sport—water skiing, golf, tennis and swimming.

Men Better At Problem Solving
NEW YORK (UP)—A scientific investigation has verified something long suspected of women. When it comes to solving problems, they're not very good and they're not nearly as good as men.
But the investigation showed this wasn't because their reasoning powers are weaker than men's as many authorities have asserted. Example: William James, the great American psychologist, said: "Woman is the unreasonable animal."
Women aren't much good at solving problems because they don't much care whether problems are solved or not, the investigation found. When persuaded to buckle down to working out problems, women did quite well solving them.

All this information emerged from elaborate experiments with living specimens and with living men, too designed by a female psychologist. Naturally since she is a scientist, Dr. Gloria L. Carey of Swarthmore College, kept her "sex bias" out of it.
Dr. Carey experimented with 12 women and 12 men. Both groups had been found to be equal in matters of intelligence, aptitudes for mathematical thinking and for expressing themselves, and in abilities to comprehend what they heard and were told.

Her first picking from testing their minds comparatively was a clear demonstration that the men really wanted to solve problems and the women, in general, didn't.
Then followed an experimental step which involved a well conceived effort to increase the interest of both men and women in problem solving. After that, both were given more problems to solve. The women improved a great deal, the men hardly at all. Dr. Carey thought this showed that all women needed in order to solve problems as effectively as men, was the desire to do so. Reporting to the American Psychological Assn. She pointed out that women often say they're not up to it when asked to solve a problem.
